

EMILY GREBERMAN

Phone: (215)-480-4802

Email: e.greberman@rutgers.edu

EDUCATION

- | | | |
|------------|---|-----------------------|
| PhD | Rutgers University | Start Date: Fall 2022 |
| MS | University of Pennsylvania, Criminology
Master Thesis: Covid Vaccine Hesitancy and Acceptance:
Self-reported data from individuals incarcerated
With mentorship from Aaron Chalfin | May 2022 |
| BS | Drexel University, Criminology & Justice Studies and Psychology
Graduated Magna Cum Laude
Graduated with Honors | June 2021 |

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

The Little Scandinavia Project April 2019 to Present

Research Assistant to Dr. Jordan Hyatt, Philadelphia PA

- Participate in bi-weekly meetings at SCI Chester with research and correctional staff and document project events and generate reports for stakeholders (on pause due to COVID)
- Transcribed participant reflections and data entry that totaled over 100+hours of recordings
- Co-authored 1 published paper centering around correctional officer wellness using a Scandinavian perspective

The Crime and Justice Policy Lab November 2021 to May 2022

Research Assistant to Renee Contreras, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia PA

- Dedicate around 8 hours a week to lab work
- Assist with Shannon Community Safety Initiative Project by creating monthly topic briefings and newsletters for community partners
- Gather information on trauma-informed practices to conduct during individual risk assessments.
- Cultivate packets for community partners to integrate with the sensitivity of intake processes.

Senior Thesis: Twitter as a Mechanism for Coping with a Traumatic Event: Ferguson and the Shooting of Michael Brown September 2020 to June 2021

Advisor: Dr. Robert Kane, Drexel University, Philadelphia PA

- Utilized psychological as well as criminological research to define collective coping mechanisms when dealing with a traumatic event
- Provided background research on the effect of community resilience and police brutality on minority populations
- Coded over 7,000 tweets utilizing Excel for categorical variables in Excel relating to symptoms of coping

- The completed work was presented to the College of Arts & Sciences Interdepartmental Research Showcase and won first place.

Juvenile Justice Research and Reform Lab

June 2019- Sept 2020

Research Assistant to Naomi Goldstein, Drexel University, Philadelphia PA

- Perform data entry and cleaning using SPSS for several survey projects
- Read, summarize, and compare journal articles beneficial for background of studies that totaled 9 hours of work a week.

STARS Undergraduate Researcher

June 2018-August 2018

- Provided an empirical analysis on how Twitter can be used to bridge communication between 2+ groups or institutions
- Utilized SPSS to code tweets from the 25 largest police departments in the U.S June - August 2018 to test how police departments use their Twitter accounts to interact with their communities
- Presented findings in showcase to Drexel community members, featured on department's website

PUBLICATIONS

Journal Publications

Hyatt, J. M., Andersen, S. N., Greberman, E., Andersen, L. H., & Christensen, I. (2022). Developing harm reduction policies: Evidence from Copenhagen's drug consumption rooms. Drug and Alcohol Review.

Horowitz, V. L., Greberman, E. R., Nolan, P. E., Hyatt, J. M., Uggen, C., Andersen, S. N., & Chanenson, S. L. (2021). A comparative perspective on officer wellness: american reflections from norwegian prisons. Criminal Justice Studies, 1-21.

Technical Reports

Staff Perceptions of Incentives for COVID Vaccination, Report for PA Department of Corrections, Jordan Hyatt, Valerio Bacak, Erin Kerrison, Emily Greberman, August 2021

Acknowledgements

Michael Mueller-Smith and Kevin T. Schnepel, Diversion in the Criminal Justice System, The Review of Economic Studies 1-54 (2020)

PRESENTATIONS

College Senior Thesis Presentation

Emily Greberman with mentorship by Dr. Robert Kane, Twitter as a mechanism for coping with a traumatic event: Ferguson and the shooting of Michael Brown -Drexel University College of Arts and Sciences Interdepartmental Research Showcase, May 2021

Conference Presentation

Leah Brogan, Naomi E. Goldstein, Jeanne McPhee, Elizabeth Gale-Bentz, Lea Parker, Elizabeth Calio, Emily Greberman. Using community-based, participatory action research to reform juvenile probation practice – American Psychology-Law Society Conference, March 2020

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Rutgers University, Newark, New Jersey

Fall 2022

Teaching Assistant, MA Statistics and Data Management

- Provided an average of 15 hours/week to complete TA duties which consisted of:
 - Offering office hours during the week for a duration of 2 hours
 - Attending class weekly in order to help facilitate classroom activities where students could ask questions and increase their comprehension of mathematical concepts
 - Grading in-class assignments and elaborate data analysis assignments and projects
 - Being available throughout the weeks to provide access to help if students were unable to make office hours.

Drexel University, Philadelphia, PA

January 2020 to June 2021

Teaching Assistant, Community-Based Learning Classes

- Lead and facilitate group activities and discussions totaling 25 hours a term, as well as offer office hours 5 times a term to aid students with work and assignments.
- Classes consisted of half Drexel students and half community members. Those members were of several backgrounds such as currently and previously incarcerated, international peers in Amsterdam
 - Techniques of Public Speaking, 3 credits, all years+ community students, Winter 2020)
 - Prison, Society, and You (4 credits, freshman+ community students, Fall 2021)
 - Justice in Our Community (4 credits, freshman+ community students, Winter 2021)
 - Places of Justice (4 credits, freshman + community students, Spring 2021)

HONORS AND AWARDS

First Place in Interdepartmental Research Showcase

2021

Presented Senior Thesis “Twitter as a Mechanism for Coping with a Traumatic Event: Ferguson and the Shooting of Michael Brown” to Drexel’s College of Arts & Sciences Research Showcase and won first place.

Dean’s List

2017-2021

Drexel University

Recipient

2020

General Electric College Bowl Endowed Scholarship

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

Youth Aid Panel for the District Attorney’s Office of Philadelphia

[Panel Member], [Philadelphia, PA], April 2019- March 2022

- Attend panel hearings 2-3 times a month to set contracts for first-time juvenile offenders targeting their needs
- Monitor 1-2 juveniles ages 10-17 to enforce abiding by a contract for 3 months
- Contact juvenile each week and monitor their contract completion

Dornsife Center for Community Engagement

[Volunteer], [Philadelphia, PA], September 2018 -June 2019

- Assist community members in GED prep such as math and reading skills

COMPUTER SKILLS

Data Analysis: R, NVivo, SPSS, ArcGIS, Microsoft Excel

Writing Platforms: Microsoft Word and Powerpoint, Trint Transcription

LEADERSHIP AND PUBLIC SPEAKING

Penn Grad Talks Presenter: Social Sciences, University of Pennsylvania, March 2022

Recruitment Representative, Student Advisory Board for College of Arts and Sciences, Drexel University 2020-2021

Student Ambassador, College of Arts and Sciences and Criminology Department, Drexel University, 2017-2021